DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

1. Claims 1-13 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Ono (JP 11-344829). Ono (abstract) teaches a toner having the same size, circularity, as residual amount of volatiles. It is inherent that an extracted water having a pH and extracted components with methanol would be the same as claimed because a similar toner composition is claimed.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. Claims 1-13 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Ono (JP 11-344829) as applied to claims 1-13 above, and further in view of Kidokoro (2006/0172217). Ono is described above. In addition, Kidokoro teaches a similar toner with the same methanol extraction percentage (paragraph 12 and claims 11-12). It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to combine the teachings of Kidokoro and Ono because of the similarities in compositions and physical characteristics with the expectation of similar results due to the similarities in toners.
